The Use of Cookies on our Website

Cookies are small text files that help your web browser to navigate through a particular website. It allows a computer (or other electronic device) to remember specific information relating to a website which has been visited. For example, they may monitor how many times you visit the website, which pages you go to, traffic data, location data and the originating domain name of a user's internet service provider.

The BELL Consulting Services website uses several cookies. The information tracked is likely to include pages that you have viewed on our website, your IP address and details of the search engine you used to find us and some of this information could be used to identify you.

You do not have to accept cookies, and you can click on the relevant button to refuse them altogether. However, please be advised that not all aspects of the website may work if cookies were disabled.

For further information on cookies generally visit www.aboutcookies.org.
